WHY IS FRANCE BURNING? VIOLENT PROTESTS SPREAD BEYOND THE CITY OF LOVE! HERE'S WHAT LED TO THE UNREST France Police Shooting: France has been gripped by a range of violent incidents including riots, protests, and loot. Videos of people taking to streets and vehicles being set on fire are doing the rounds of social media and the scenes are horrific, to say the least. Police officers have fiercely clashed with the protestors and the scenario keeps getting worse as each day passes.

As per multiple media reports, the protests have evoked a crisis response from French President Emmanuel Macron, who held an emergency meeting with ministers to assess the situation as he makes attempts to unite the country in his second term. So what led to the unrest? Was it racism or police brutality? We are here to give you key facts related to the situation.

What sparked unrest in France?

It all started when a police officer fatally shot a 17-year-old, named Nahel, near Paris. Nahel was reportedly driving a car when he was shot at close range at a traffic stop near Nelson Mandela Square on Tuesday morning. Nahel reportedly died from a single shot through his left arm and chest. Police and paramedics tried to resuscitate him but he was declared dead later, Reuters reported. As per the report, an officer told investigators that he wanted to avoid another chase as he feared another person would get hurt.

Activists believe that it was Nahel's race that played a factor in his killing. His killing has put a spotlight on the alleged Police discrimination against minoritized communities in France.

Nahel's killing has been compared to the killings of George Floyd in the US and other people of color at the hands of law enforcement
