MUMBAI CRIME: BRAVING MOB, STONES, POLICE SPEED AWAY WITH SERIAL CHAIN SNATCHER

In a carefully planned operation, 26 Mumbai police personnel disguised as doctors and patients in ambulances face an angry mob in Ambivali, making it to a level crossing in the nick of time.

The cops put Zakir inside one of the ambulances and prepared to exit the place. So far, none of the civilians had realized that the police were present among them and were apprehending someone.

In an operation that was no less than a dramatic Bollywood police chase, Mumbai police officers from Zone XI disguised themselves as doctors and patients in ambulances to nab two alleged chain snatchers from Ambivali on Saturday, February 4. In a carefully timed exercise that lasted just a few minutes, the police party of 26 caught one of the two accused, identified as Sayyed Zakir alias Sanga.

Zakir belongs to the so-called Irani gang and has 27 cases of chain snatching and cheating registered against him, three of which were registered in 2022. Zakir was traced to Ambivali with the help of footage from several CCTVs and information received by MHB Colony police's Assistant Police Inspector (API) Suryakant Pawar. Considering that many such plans of the police have failed in Ambivali, senior inspector Sudhir Kudalkar, API Pawar, and API Akhilesh Bombe, under the guidance of Zone XI Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) Ajaykumar Bansal, recced the area few times and gathered information about the accused.

Zakir was produced in court on Monday and has been remanded to police custody. His family told him mid-day that Zakir is innocent and that the actual criminals implicated him to save their skin. They blamed factionalism in their community for Zakir's arrest.

27 No of snatching, cheating cases were filed against him.

Mumbai: A special POCSO court has recently sentenced a murderous father who repeatedly raped his 13-year-old daughter to 17 years of imprisonment. Special Judge A. Z. Khan rejected it.

'I have the responsibility of taking care of my second wife and four children. Therefore, mercy should be shown in the punishment', the accused requested after the court found him guilty. However, the crime was not committed by the accused under pressure or because the victim girl instigated him. When the minor girl was in the custody of the accused, he repeatedly tortured her while he was responsible for her care and maintenance. Therefore, he does not deserve any mercy in the case of this very serious crime', the judge mentioned in his decision.

'After the death of my first wife, I married her second wife against the opposition of her parents. Out of that anger, they have implicated me in a false case', the defense was made by the accused. However, no evidence has been given by the accused as to why the minor victim made such serious allegations against his own father, and how if those allegations are false. On the contrary, the victim's allegations and testimony about it are very reliable and the complainant's testimony is also helpful to him', the judge convicted the accused.
